

ABSTRACT

A method of and system for flexibly integrating organization related data, information, knowledge and systems into a market value matrix and using said matrix to support the optimization one or more aspects of organization risk, return and value.